

Lunch Combo Question Set

Q1

To kick things off: Is a hot dog a sandwich? 🌭

- ☒ Yes
- ☒ No
- ☐ It depends
- ☐ I refuse to answer

Q2

🤔 If the bottom of a hot dog bun rips, resulting in two separate pieces of bread containing the sausage.....
Would it now be considered a sandwich?

- ☒ Yes
- ☒ No

Q3

What is the minimum number of ingredients, in addition to bread, required to classify something as a sandwich? 🍞

- 0 🌭 (bread is a sandwich by itself)
- 1 🍞 (e.g. buttered toast)
- 2 🥪 (e.g. PB&J)
- 3 or more 🍞

Q4

Is a taco more likely to be considered a sandwich if it has a 🌮 hard shell, or 🌮 soft shell?

- Hard
- Soft
- Only if the bottom cracks or rips, regardless of shell
- ☐ Under no conditions should a taco be considered a sandwich

Q5

Now, what is the most important characteristic to consider when deciding whether something is a soup? 🍲

The broth

The consistency

The way it's served

The primary flavour profile

Something else 📝

Q6

Up next: Is cereal with milk a type of soup? 🍲

✅ Yes

❌ No

📝 It depends

Q7

While sitting in a restaurant, are you more or less likely to order a sandwich from the menu after learning it is an “open-faced” sandwich? 🥪

Much more ⬆️

A little more

It makes no difference

A little less

Much less ⬆️

Q8

👉 Would you classify a curry 🍛 as a type of soup, like stew or chowder?

Why or why not? 💡

Q9

👉 If two pieces of pizza are put together crust-sides out, is that a sandwich? 🍕

Why or why not? 💡

Q10

To what degree does the intent of the chef matter when classifying foods as soups or sandwiches? 🤖🔍

0 - Not at all 🚫

1

2

3

4

5 - It's the only thing that matters 🎯